Ann Evangelista is an executive consultant with Corporate Psychology Resources Inc./TalentQuest and she helps businesses find the right people for the right jobs.

“Companies are best and people are best when everybody is happy and productive,” she said.

Happiness for her is giving back to the community and supporting those around her to do the same. She spearheaded an initiative to give every employee four hours a month to participate in community service efforts.

Frank Merritt, president and CEO of Corporate Psychology Resources/TalentQuest, said the initiative would never have happened if it weren't for Evangelista pushing. “She led that effort and it has helped our entire culture.”

Evangelista wants to have a positive impact.

She is vice chair of the East Atlanta Kids Club and a member of the Human Resources Committee for Junior Achievement of Georgia. She also serves Team in Training, a sports-focused fund-raising branch of the Leukemia and Lymphoma Society.

“The work I do with these organizations has a direct impact on people's lives and that is consistent with my professional work,” she said.
